Divorce Lawyer in Focus: Andrew Banna

Date : December 3, 2019

By Andrew Banna, a Principal of Matthews Folbigg, in our Family Law Group

Since his admission as a Solicitor in 2006, Andrew has practised exclusively in Family Law having represented married and de facto clients in property matters, parenting matters, spousal maintenance matters and child support matters.

Andrew enjoys appearing at the Family Court of Australia and the Federal Circuit Court of Australia, where he appears on a regular basis. He also appears at the Local Court to assist his clients with Police matters that arise following breakdown of their relationship.

Andrew approaches his matters in a client focused way with the view of reaching a resolution in the most efficient manner without the need of incurring substantial costs.

Andrew has attained Specialist Accreditation in Family Law through the Law Society of New South Wales.